GET KIDS ACTIVE!

As technology is advancing, kids are spending more and more time playing video games and on electronic gadgets. Not only does sedentary lifestyle pose many health risk factors but also repetitive motions while using these gadgets lead to many musculo-skeletal injuries. We are also beginning to see more and more of postural syndromes, which were rare up until technology boomed. In an effort to divert kid's attention from these electronic devices, I have renamed a common backyard game to BEAN TOSS. Not only does this get kids to be physically active but also enhances social interaction with others. Social interaction is ever crucial as it is a must for success. It gets kids active, increases their interaction with others and teaches them sportsmanship which emphasize it is okay to lose. They have to brush off failure and move on in order to win the next game, which is also what you do to succeed in life. I want to make them active first then give them an alternative instead of hanging out in bars. This is all accomplished in a fun way, so parents get your kids active as well as give them the solid foundation to be successful in life. It only costs $59.99 on sale now, so hurry! Regular price is $79.99.
